FOREWORD

This record contains all descendants, so far as known, of John Adam Friermouth. son of an English officer of that name, who came from England with his father, and settled at Barryfield, Ont.

These comprise about 304 descendants. Following are partial records of the family of Mary Jane Smith who married Ephraim Kyes, son of Esther Friermouth (or Frimewood); of Jane Stratton, who married Daniel Smith, and of Rachel Stratton, who married Sumner Melvin.

These last three partial records are of interest to the Smith-Kyes, and Stratton-Melvin families only.

In the following pages, John Adam Frimemood, and all his descendants are given first, followed by Esther Frimewood Kyes and all her descendants, recorded by families, in order of age. Where each name appears again, as the head of a family, it may be traced by the large number prefixed. The small number at the right of each name indicates the generation; as, Officer Friermouth[1] is the first of his family; John Adam Frimemood[2] is of the third generation.

Emily Frimemood Sloper was born in Gananoque, Leeds Co., Ont., on Apr. 10, 1824, and was married to James Sloper in 1843. She is the eldest living descendant of the Friermouth family, and resides with her daughter, Mrs. Neely Johnson Judah, at Astoria, Ore. Alpheus Kyes, who died Dec. 10, 1916, was until that date, the eldest living descendant of Esther Frimewood Kyes, only sister of John Adam Frimemood. He was born on Mar. 22, 1824, at Lansdowne, Ont. See P. 34.

INTRODUCTION

The following brief history of most of the descendants of John Adam Frimemood and of Esther Frimewood, is compiled from records in the possession of Mrs. Fanny Kyes Robinson, of Ovid, Mich., and from material in many letters received from other members of the family.

In her old age, Mrs. John Adam Frimemood removed the family record from the family Bible in order to keep it with her, and it was lost; so that the dates for some of her children who died in the fore part of the nineteenth century, are only to be reached approximately. However, nothing has been set down that has not been made reasonably sure by various comparisons.

While this record is incomplete, the writer has published it in order to make sure of the available facts while the older members of the family, some of them in the nineties, are still with us to lend their assistance, and with the hope that some time the record will be carried further back, through reference to English War-records in Canada and England.

The earliest known member of the Frimemood, or Frimewood, family, in America, as the story is told by Mrs. Fanny Kyes Robinson, and corroborated by descendants of John Adam Frimemood, —was a British officer named Friermouth, the name afterwards being converted variously into Frimemood and Frimewood by his descendants. This officer was stationed at Kingston, Ont., with his regiment. He brought with him from England a son John Adam, or Adam, and when the father returned to England, the son remained in Barryfield, a suburb of Kingston, and married Mary Moore, of Welch parentage, an alliance which his father opposed, and which apparently separated father and son.

Adam and Mary Moore Friermouth had two children, named John Adam and Esther. Esther told her children that her mother, Mary Moore Friermouth, died when Esther was ten years old (1812) and her father died when she was six (in 1808). Adam was older than his sister by about two years, but no record of his birth date can be found. Esther Friermouth was born at Barryfield, a suburb of Kingston, Ont., Aug. 9, 1802. Her brother was probably born in the same town, in 1800. Descendants of both lines state that the children were unhappily separated as orphans, Esther being brought up by an uncle. The children of John Adam Frimemood have heard him relate that property belonging to his sister and himself was diverted to the use of others during his childhood, and papers which were in his father's possession which would have established their rights, were accidentally burned by the mother, Mary Moore Friermouth. His daughter, Mrs. Mary Munk, says this property was largely in Georgia, and that Adam Friermouth, the officer's son, was a slave holder. Mrs. Adelia Lathrop says Adam Friermouth was on his way to Georgia to establish his claim, when he sickened and died.

Mrs. Mary Munk relates that, disliking the Canadian custom of publishing banns for three Sundays preceding a marriage, young John Adam Frimemood and his bride Lovina Losee, crossed the St. Laurence River in company with two other couples, and were married by a Baptist minister on the U. S. side, returning to Canada the same evening.

But little can be told with authority now, about the childhood of the two orphans, John Adam and Esther, nor is it known just when the change from the spelling Friermouth to Frimemood became established. Esther told her children she was taught to read by her godfather in the fort at Barryfield, which indicates that they were brought up in the faith of the Church of England. Mrs. John Nuttall, of South Lake, Leeds Co., Ont., was a half-aunt to John Adam and Esther, and the wife of an English soldier. She visited her niece after Esther was married, telling her the greater part of what she knew about her people. Esther inherited some property shortly after her marriage.*

*Footnote—(Another great-aunt of her own, whom Mrs. Fanny Robinson recalls, was Mrs. Betsey Trickey of Escott, Ont., Hutchinson Twp. It is not clear that she was a sister of Mrs. Nuttall, nor, since Mrs. Nuttall was "half-aunt" to the orphans, whether it was the officer or his wife who was twice married. Mrs. Nuttall's children were Robert, Hannah Nuttall Cunningham, John, George, Elizabeth Nuttall Galloway, William, Sarah Anderson, and Mary Nuttall. This information is for the use of the future historian.)

Esther's brother, John Adam Frimemood, and his wife remained in Canada for some years. All their children except the two younger daughters, Martha Adelia and Mary M., were born there. They removed first to New York state, then to Ohio, and finally to Iowa, where John Adam Frimemood built a home on the banks of the river two miles from Big Rock, Iowa, and with a turning lathe, carried on the manufacture of chairs and other articles. It appears that the family reached Iowa about the year 1845.

COMPLETE RECORD

1. An English officer named Friermouth, who was stationed at the fort at Barryfield, suburb of Kingston, Ont. It is unknown whom he married, or whether he had other children than his son Adam. Adam at least had a half-sister Mrs. John Nuttall. The officer is said to have returned to England.

2. Adam, or John Adam Friermouth[2], (son of the British officer Friermouth[1],) who came from England with his father and remained, marrying against his father's wishes, a beautiful Welch girl named Mary Moore. As the record of this marriage was not found, on investigation of the Church of England archives at Barryfield and of the Cathedral at Kingston, it is possible they crossed the St. Lawrence, and were married in New York state, as was their son, in after years. The recollections of Mrs. Mary Munk and Mrs. Lathrop indicate that they possessed property, including a plantation and slaves, in Georgia near Savannah. As has been stated, the father is said to have died on his way to Georgia, but the mother of the two children died in Canada, in Leeds or Frontenac Co., and the orphans were brought up there by relatives.

Esther Frimewood Kyes told her daughter that Adam Friermouth died in 1808 and his wife died in 1812.

THEIR CHILDREN

3. I. John Adam Frimemood[3], born probably at Barryfield, suburb of Kingston, Ont., in 1800. Married Lovina Losee, in New York state, over the river from Kingston, Ont. Died at Big Rock, Iowa, in Oct. 1880. They had nine children who lived. (See record No. 3, further on, as head of the family.)

4. II. Esther Frimemood[3], born Aug. 9, 1802, at Barryfield, suburb of Kingston, Ont. Married Ephraim Kyes about 1819 at Escott, Leeds Co., Ont. Died at Ovid, Mich., Apr. 11, 1890. Nine children. (See No. 4, and her descendants, in latter part of book.)

3. John Adam Frimemood[3] [Adam Friermouth[2], Officer Friermouth[1]] son of Adam and Mary Moore Friermouth, was born in 1800, probably in Barryfield, Ont., and died at Big Rock, Iowa, in Oct., 1880. He was married in New York state, crossing the St. Lawrence with his bride, to avoid the Canadian custom of publishing banns. As their first child was born in Gananoque, Leeds Co., it is probable this was their first home. After the birth of their seventh child, James Losee, they moved to New York state, where they remained several years. They then removed to Ohio, remaining there one year, finally settling in Iowa at Big Rock, not far from Davenport, building a home near the river, and manufacturing chairs and other articles. The fine Christian character of John A. Frimemood inspired in his children a reverent love for their father. "His Bible was read from cover to cover, many times." For several years a weakness of his eyes kept him in a darkened room. During these years he was attended by his daughter Esther Marler and her husband. In his eighty-first year, a fall down the cellar stairs so injured him that he died after a week's patient suffering. He was interred in the Big Rock cemetery, beside his daughter Mary's first husband, John A. M. Hall. He was survived by his wife for many years. She made her home successively with her daughter Mary at Naponee, Nebr., and with her daughter Esther at Alliance, Nebr., where she died, Apr. 15, 1898, aged 92 years, 6 months.

THEIR CHILDREN

5. I. Emily Frimemood[4], born Apr. 10, 1824, at Gananoque, Leeds Co., Canada. Married Feb. 3, 1843, to James Sloper. Living (1917) with her daughter Mrs. Judah, at Astoria, Ore. (See record No. 5, further on.) Four children.

6. II. John Adam Frimemood[4], born about 1826, probably at Gananoque, Canada. Died in regimental hospital at Collieville, Tenn., Aug. 10, 1864. Married Rebecca Loughrey near Big Rock, Iowa, in 1846. Five children. (See record No. 6 further on.)

7. III. Lorinda Frimemood[4], born about 1828, in Canada. Married Jonathan Farnam, a farmer. Died near Big Rock, in 1855. To them were born three children:

23. a. Lovina Samantha[5], who married a minister, and after their removal to Mo. was lost track of.

24. b. Robert Farnam[5], a tinner by trade, who was last known by the family to be at Mechanicsville, Iowa. Three girls. Married Anna Bealer.

25. c. Ephraim[5], who died at the age of three

(Since the following generations of this family cannot be traced, their record closes here. They are numbered to fit in their proper place with the other grandchildren of John Adam Frimemood.)

8. IV. Romelia Frimemood[4], born about 1830 in Canada. She was the second wife of Larkins Rickord, a miller. She died at Big Rock, Iowa, in 1857. They had three children:

26. a. Melissa Rickord[5], died at age of five.

27. b. Asa Rickord[5], died at age of seven.

28. c. Rhoda Rickord[5], husband's name not known, last known to be living in Iowa.

This record closes here, as nothing can be learned of Rhoda. The children are numbered in their proper place as to age, among the grandchildren.)

9. V. Hiram Willard Frimemood[4], second son of John Adam Frimemood, was born about 1834 in Canada. He died, single, at the age of 25, near Coffeeville, Kansas, in 1859.

10. VI. Esther Kyes Frimemood[4], born Mar. 6, 1836, on the St. Lawrence River, Canadian side. Died in Davenport, Iowa, on Oct. 31, 1903. Married, Mar. 18, 1855, at Davenport, Iowa, to Robert Wm. Marler. Three children. (See record No. 10 in following pages.)

11. VII. James Losee Frimemood[4], third son of John Adam Frimemood, born about 1838, in Canada. Married, Aug. 9, 1861, at Wheatland, Iowa, to Vesta Bader. Enrolled, Aug. 14, 1861, at Davenport, Iowa, in Company C, 2nd Iowa Cav., and died, at Benton Barracks, Mo., Jan. 12, 1862, of measles. To James and Vesta Frimemood was born one son, No. 32 of the grandchildren, who lived but nine months. Mrs. Frimemood afterwards married A. O. Barkelew, and now resides at 1276 Fourth St., Riverside, Calif. (1917).

12. VIII. Martha Adelia Frimemood[4], born Sept. 25, 1840, in New York state. Married Feb. 8, 1859, at Dixon, Iowa, to Charles Lathrop. Living, 1917, in Los Angeles, Calif. Five children. (See record further on, No. 12.) Married a Mr Carter shortly before her death, Thanksgiving Day, 1921 Catherine G Neely

13. IX. Mary M. Frimemood[4], born June 13, 1843, in Alleghany Co., Haines Township, New York. Married John A. M. Hall first, and second, George M. Munk. Living, 1917, in Garrison, Kans. Two children. (See record No. 13, further on.)

5. Emily Frimemood[4], eldest daughter of John Adam and Lovina Losee Frimemood, was born in Gananoque, Canada, on Apr. 10, 1824, and is living, (1917) in Astoria, Oregon, well and active. She was married, Feb. 3, 1843, at Davenport, Iowa, to James Sloper, a carpenter, who was born in Ohio in 1826 and died in Sweetwater, Texas, in April, 1886. His people were from Maine and Vermont.

DESCENDANTS OF ESTHER FRIERMOUTH (OR FRIMEWOOD), SISTER OF JOHN ADAM FRIERMOUTH.

4. Esther Friermouth*, only daughter of Adam Friermouth, who was the son of an English officer named Friermouth, (stationed with his regiment at Barryfield, suburb of Kingston), was born Aug. 9, 1802, at Barryfield, Ont.

She had an only brother, John Adam, two years older than herself. Her father died when she was six, and her mother when she was ten years old, leaving her to be unhappily brought up by an uncle, from whom her brother took her away as soon as he was able. Nothing is known to the writer of their relatives near Kingston, save that they had a half-aunt, Mrs. John Nuttall, and an aunt, Mrs. Betsey Trickey, previously mentioned in the record of John Adam Friermouth. Her mother, Mary Moore Friermouth, was of Welch descent, unable to read English, and so unknowingly burned Adam Friermouth's papers, proving his claim to property. One of his descendants says that Adam Friermouth had just come from his Georgia plantation, and another says he was just on a journey to claim it, when he sickened and died. If the latter is correct, he probably was not buried near Kingston. The property question was evidently not settled during the lifetime of his beautiful Welch wife, who died four years later.

Esther Friermouth was taught to read by her godfather at the fort near Kingston, as she told her daughter, Fanny Kyes Robinson. Her grandfather, the English officer, is said to have returned to England and is not known to have communicated with the relatives who brought up the children. Mrs. Robinson says her mother received some property soon after she was married (probably when she became of age) which property Mrs. Robinson believes was in Georgia. She was married about 1819, to Ephraim Kyes, who was a son of Asahel and Sarah Mosier Kyes. *Asahel Kyes, the earliest member of the Kyes family of whom we have record, was a soldier in the British Footnote—*Lewis and Fanny Freeman Mosier were the parents of Sarah Mosier and of her nine brothers and sisters,—Lewis, Robin, Nicholas, Thomas, John, Elizabeth, Fanny, Phoebe, Mary. They lived at Wolfe Island, Ont., and Sarah died at Lansdowne, Ont., in Sept., 1860. About 1877, five hundred Mosiers met in Chicago, and vainly tried to establish a claim to the estate of the East India Co., Sarah Mosier Kyes was married, after the death of Asahel Kyes to Thomas Yates, and had two more children—Margaret Yates Robinson, and Eleanor Yates Landon.

Sarah Mosier's brother, John Mosier, a loyal Canadian Captain, ran the U. S. boat "Caroline" over Niagara Falls during the war of 1812 so family legends say. Her brother Nicholas was the father of Samuel, who was the father of Romain Mosier, who married Mercy Kyes (daughter of Marshall and Nancy Patterson Kyes. (See No. 145.)

Dec 29, 1837, during the Rebellion, a Canadian named Mc Leod boasted of participation in this, and was tried + [illegible] threatened army in the war of 1812, and was with his regiment at Prescott when he was taken sick. He furnished a substitute, and was taken to his home in Lansdowne Twp., Leeds Co., Ont., where he died. For his services in the war, he was granted 400 acres of land in Ontario, and his son Ephraim, then only sixteen years old, and the oldest of seven children, had to take the place of his father in a wilderness, their nearest neighbor a mile away.

His six younger brothers and sisters were Henry, John, Thomas, Mary, Abigail, and Elizabeth.

The law at that time gave all property to the oldest son, but Ephraim shared equally with his brothers, the 400 acres of land.

The greater part of his life he spent on the same farm. On the day of his burial, a neighbor said, "In the forty years I have lived by Mr. Kyes, I have never known him to do a dishonorable act." "I have always thought that we could be justly proud," writes Mrs. Fanny Kyes Robinson, "for our mother was just as honorable."

Ephraim Kyes, son of Asahel and Sarah Mosier Kyes, was born at Lansdowne, Ont., on Feb. 7, 1798, and died at Lansdown, Ont., on Feb. 13, 1869. He was married at Escott, Ont., about 1819, to Esther Friermouth (Frimewood)[3] daughter of Adam and Mary Moore Friermouth.

FAMILY RECORD OF MARY J. SMITH

WIFE OF JOHN A. KYES, (NO. 141 OF THE DESCENDANTS OF ESTHER FRIMEWOOD KYES)

When the preceding record was almost ready for the press, it was determined to print with it, such records of the Smith, Stratton and Melvin families as could be readily obtained. The records are incomplete, but may serve some one as a basis for investigation, later on.

305. I. Joshua Smith[1] and his wife, Lucinda Smith, came from Avon, Gloucestershire, England, about 1835, bringing with them all, or nearly all, of their eight children. They came by way of Montreal, and then by bateau to Kingston, where Mr. Smith was employed as a gardener.
